

Soundtrack of my Life

Seth Andrew Farris

Seth was my best friend and my brother. He could always make someone smile and was in love with photography. He was also very goofy and fun and he never wanted any one to be sad for any reason. Seth died in a car crash November 13, 2013.

Nickelback – If Today Was Your Last Day

I chose this song because it makes me think of Seth whenever I listen to it. These lyrics especially since It was his last day.

“If today was your last day
And tomorrow was too late
Could you say goodbye to yesterday?
Would you live each moment like your last?
Leave old pictures in the past
Donate every dime you have?
If today was your last day”

My Parents

My parents got divorced when I was in about 5th grade. It was a very difficult time but now they are both happily remarried to different people and they both get to come to my events and support me.

Sonny & Cher – You Better Sit Down Kids

I chose this song because it describes what my parents had to go through to tell me and my sister that they were getting a divorce. These lyrics describe almost exactly what was happening since I was young I really didn't understand and my parents didn't really get along.

“Better sit down kids I'll tell you why, kids
You might not understand, kids
But give it a try, kids

Now how should I put this I've got something to say
Your mother is staying but I'm going away
No, we're not mad, kids it's hard to say why
Your mother and I don't see eye to eye.”

The New House

This year we have moved into our new house I love it. This was the first time I have ever had to pack up and move all of my things. It really shows you what all is important and what you can live without.

I Like To Move It Move It

Now I will end this presentation on a high note. I have been moved into my new house for quite a few months now and this song makes me think of how happy I was to get out of my old house and move into a bigger house that had more room for everyone. Plus it is a fun song that just about everyone knows.
